Hi Mark – as requested, attached at the bottom of this email are drafts of the information templates that you requested for the first 10 REs. Some of these are still a work in progress, as you will see by the track changes and comments, but I did not want to remove edits and comments as they show the latest state of thinking. I also think there may be an issue that ECRAD and ECRMD will have to discuss next week, pertaining to whether risk management might be able to address reg nexus issues. I think the templates are informative as they are, but if you want more polishing we can do that next week.

These reflect the effort of an amazingly large number of people this week from ECRAD and ECRMD; I am copying the RE leads but I do not know all of the players, so I hope the team leads will share this. I am also copying them so they know that I have sent this to you, so they and their teams can put the pens down until Monday.

Also, as bonus, Yvette worked with the exposure team this week to develop decision trees for ambient water, drinking water, and land akin to the decision tree Michal developed and shared last week for air. AND then they populated the spreadsheet for 9 of the 10 chemicals (see the tabs) – Asbestos will be added next week. See the spreadsheet, it is impressive.
